Bail Reform Blamed for Westchester Double Murder

Luis Ramos

Suspect Luis Ramos Arrested, Released for Arson One Week Prior to Double Murder

By Dan Murphy

The issue of bail reform in New York State is back in the news and in the public debate after a double murder in Yonkers on Nov. 1. Two women were found dead in the Wakefield Park section of Yonkers, after concerned neighbors called the police.

On Monday, November 1st, 2021, at approximately 4:30 PM, members of the Yonkers Police Department responded to 68 Shipman Avenue to conduct a welfare check of the residents at the request of a concerned third party: a mother and daughter who live at location were not heard from in several days. Responding officers were unable to make contact with anyone inside the home and forced entry. Within the home officers discovered the lifeless bodies of two females, both having died from apparent multiple stab wounds.

Officers cordoned off the scene and initiated a criminal investigation. Detectives from the Major Case Squad and Crime Scene Unit responded to the scene and canvassed for subjects and witnesses, recovered surveillance video, and processed forensic evidence. Within hours Detectives identified a person of interest, and in collaboration with local, state, and Federal authorities, tracked him to the area of the Arizona, Mexico international border. Working together with prosecutors from the Westchester County District Attorney's Office, investigators developed information and probable cause to charge that person of interest with felony crimes.

Murder charges and an arrest warrant were filed against Luis Gabriel RAMOS, a 27-year-old resident of Saw Mill River Road this City. Investigation yielded that RAMOS was known to the victims and allegedly stabbed them to death the weekend prior, sometime between Friday evening and Saturday morning. RAMOS then fled the area to the southwest United States to allegedly escape capture; he was apprehended by the FBI Phoenix Fugitive Task Force in the unincorporated community of Salome, Arizona Tuesday evening without incident.

Westchester Election 2021 Shocker: Maher-Giacobbe BOL Race to Close to Call

first time republican county board canddiate Anthony Giacobbe, left, got 49% of the vote in the 10th District with more absentee ballots to be counted

By Dan Murphy

The biggest political surprise in the Westchester elections of 2021 came in the County Board of Legislators race in the 10th District, (Eastchester and New Rochelle), with incumbent democrat, Legislator Damon Maher, holding on to a slim, 139 vote lead over republican first-time candidate Anthony Giacobbe.

This reporter likes to highlight the races that political observers from both parties believe are the most competitive, and the ones to watch. And not one of my contacts picked the Maher-Giacobbe race as one to watch.

Giacobbe has yet to concede defeat, with about 650 absentee and paper ballots to be counted at the Board of Elections on Nov. 16 to determine the winner. "Right now, I'm down 139 votes, so let's wait for the final tally. I'm confident that we received a lot of support from democrats and independents on Election Day."

While Giacobbe admitted that "everyone thought there was no way a republican could win this district again after Damon (Maher) won is by 1800 votes two years ago, but I campaigned hard, and went door to door every day, hearing the people's concerns. I have a young family and I want to stay here and make sure that Westchester is still a place where the younger generation and seniors can afford to live. That is coming away from us."

Giacobbe has three generations of his family in the district. He grew up in the New Rochelle part of the 10th District, and his parents and grandpar-

Westchester Congressman Bowman Explains No Vote on Infrastructure Bill

Congressman Jamaal Bowman, kneeling, campaigning in Eastchester By Dan Murphy

In an exclusive interview with Yonkers Rising-YonkersTimes.com, Westchester congressman Jamaal Bowman defended and explained his no vote on the $1.2 Trillion Infrastructure bill which narrowly passed the House and will now be signed by President Joe Biden.

"I supported both the Hard infrastructure bill and the Human Infrastructure bill," Rep. Bowman said about the first infrastructure bill that he and five other progressive democrats voted no on. "But we had been negotiating for five months and agreed to move both bills together. The President and the Speaker were both on board with this strategy."

The second bill that Bowman and progressive members of congress including Rep. Alexandra Ocasio-Cortez, and Senator Bernie Sanders support is known as the human infrastructure bill. That bill would spend $1.75 Trillion on universal pre-k, free community college education, public housing, subsidizing prescription drugs, and more.

But Bowman explained that at the last minute, on Friday November 5, six moderate Democratic house members refused to go along with the deal and vote on both bills together. The result was the first Hard Infrastructure bill, which did have bi-partisan support in the House and the Senate, passed narrowly, while the Human infrastructure bill sits awaiting a vote in the House, with an unclear future in the Senate.

"It wasn't the right thing to do, to pivot at the last minute away from what we had all agreed on. Both bills were ready for a vote on Friday. I couldn't support that and that is why I voted no," said Bowman, who realizes the benefits of the Hard Infrastructure bill, and that "I would never hurt my district," but he explained that he voted no both as a protest to the last-minute change and to support the importance of passing the Human Infrastructure bill. The Hard Infrastructure bill did pass, 226-208, with the help of 13 republican house members.

"The Human Infrastructure bill focuses on woman and people of color. 90% of the jobs in the first infrastructure bill go to white men. This

St. John's Riverside Hospital Stroke Team Says Act F.A.S.T. If You See Signs of a Stroke

Dr. Raffaele Milizia and Linda Sugrue, BSN, St. John's Riverside Hospital Stroke Program Team

By Dan Murphy

At St. John's Riverside Hospital, members of the Stroke Program Team share with the public easy ways to identify if a friend or family member is having a stroke. The guidance from Dr. Raffaele Milizia and Linda Sugrue, RN, is based on the American Stroke Association's guidelines, with the acronym F.A.S.T. used as a mnemonic to help detect and enhance responsiveness to the needs of a person having a stroke.

The F.A.S.T. acronym stands for Facial drooping, Arm weakness, Speech difficulties, and Time to call emergency services. The hope is that more people in Yonkers and Westchester can easily remember F.A.S.T. to detect if a loved one, friend, or co-worker has symptoms of a stroke.

"The take-home message is for people to have an awareness of what stroke symptoms could be, and the next step is to activate the healthcare system by calling 911," said Dr. Milizia, Medical Director of St. John's Riverside Hospital Stroke Program.

"The F.A.S.T. mnemonic helps people recognize what the stroke symptoms are: loss of function - if you can't speak, and have a loss of feeling and use of your arm; these are all reasons to call 911 immediately and have emergency medical staff start to intervene. You don't have to be the person who says this is a stroke; just call 911," said Linda Sugrue, RN.

"Other signs to look for are sudden changes to your normal vision, bal-

Westchester State Senator Shelley Mayer Announces Run for NY Attorney General

Westchester State Senator Shelley Mayer

By Dan Murphy

Westchester State Senator Shelley Mayer announced this week that she is a candidate for NY Attorney General. Sen. Mayer's announcement comes one week after the current NY AG Letitia James, announced her candidacy for Governor next year, in 2022.

James' decision to run for Governor means that she will not seek re-election as Attorney General. And while Mayer got out early with her announcement, she is expected to have a lot of company in the democratic primary for AG. Democrats interested in running for NYAG include State Senator Mike Gianaris, Law professor Zephyr Teachout, Brooklyn District Attorney Eric Gonzalez, Queens Assemblyman Clyde Vanel, with more coming.

"I'm running for NY State Attorney General to make lives better for New Yorkers using the authority and power of the state's top law enforcement office. I have the experience, judgment, and legal skills to use this position for the common good and actually get things done. For twelve years, I served as an Assistant Attorney General, fighting for older women laid off from their jobs - even though they were good at them - because the Holiday Inns Corp. changed the vision of women they wanted to work at their restaurants; as the first head of the Westchester Regional Office, fighting for car buyers being ripped off for their initial deposits when they changed their minds; as an Assistant Attorney General in the Civil Rights Bureau, working on major reproductive rights cases all the way up to the Supreme Court; and as a legislative staffer and top counsel in the office, advising the Attorney General on the best ways to improve the lives of New Yorkers," said Sen. Mayer.

One Westchester Democrat insider said, "I love the job that Shelley has done for Westchester in the State Senate but making a run for Attorney General will be tough. It will raise her profile but, Gianaris wants to be AG badly. The only question is can a white male get elected statewide as a democrat anymore?"

Another Westchester democrat said that "Shelley can expect a challenge from Long Island for Attorney General. Congressmember Kathleen Rice and Congressmember Tom Suozzi are two names that come to mind quickly who want to be AG. And if you give me a day, I can give you a dozen more."

Mayer also highlighted her accomplishments in the State Senate in her announcement. "Now, as a Senator representing the diverse communities of the 37th Senate District, which covers a large part of Westchester County, from Yonkers to Bedford, I have brought my intense commitment to public service to help all the people of my district. As Chair of the NYS Senate Education Committee, I fought with Majority Leader Andrea Stewart-Cousins to finally ensure New York State's public schools received the funds they deserved under the law. During the height of COVID and to this day, I push to get thousands of unemployment claims addressed and resolved. And most recently I worked with the current Attorney General, Leticia James, to secure the $2.7 million owed under the law to over 250 Doral Arrow-wood workers who were terminated on Christmas Eve, 2019 without the notice to which they were entitled. From 2012 to 2018, as an Assembly Member representing Yonkers, I made sure the issues facing New York's third largest City were addressed including obtaining funds to restore Yonkers Public Housing, help fix and repave Central Avenue, and support our kids through quality afterschool programming," stated Mayer.

If Sen. Mayer were able to secure the democratic nomination for AG, it would set up another round of political musical chairs in Westchester for her Senate seat in the 37th District, which includes Yonkers, Eastchester and the Sound Shore up to North Caste. "There are at least a dozen democrats who would love to have the democratic line for Shelley's senate seat. It starts with Mayor Spano in Yonkers and continues north to include Assemblymembers Steve Otis, Amy Paulin, Noam Bramson and more."

Many Yonkers democrats had hoped that Sen. Mayer would return to Yonkers and run for Mayor in 2023, with the slogan already set-Mayer for Mayor. Some believe that dream may still happen. "Maybe Shelley is tossing her hat in the ring for AG as a way to build her gravitas and intimidate any democrats from challenging her for State Senate next year, but also to put her name on top of the list for Yonkers Mayor in two years."

But what if Sen. Mayer dreams the impossible dream and it comes true. She is the next AG. Her senate seats opens up, and sound shore democrats and Yonkers democrats duke it out. But who becomes the next Mayor of Yonkers?

Without Mayer on the list for Yonkers Mayor, the two primary names are City Councilmembers Corazon Pineda-Isaac and John Rubbo. Both are also rumored to be running for City Council Majority leader next year; Pineda-Isaac currently holds the post.

The only other name for Yonkers Mayor out there is yes a Fourth Term for Mayor Mike Spano. Deputy County Executive Ken Jenkins wants to stay where he is and run for County Executive in four years. Mayor Spano is also eyeing a run for County Executive but would be out of office for two years in between.

One thing we heard again and again from Westchester democrats was their love for Shelley Mayer, and not an unkind word. Whether that Westchester democratic love translates into a run for statewide office is another matter.

State Senator Gianaris, who serves as Deputy Majority Leader under Mayer's Westchester colleague in the State Senate, Senate Majority Leader Andrea Stewart-Cousins, said "I love Shelley Mayer. She's a great colleague."

Aerosmith Founding Member to Hold Benefit for Disabled Veterans

Some of our readers may not know that two members of perhaps the greatest American Rock band EVER, Aerosmith, came from Yonkers.

Fifty-one years ago last week, Aerosmith played their first ever show in Massachusetts. Raymond Tabano was the band's rhythm guitarist . Ray and his childhood friend Aerosmith front man Steven Tyler grew up in northeast Yonkers and attended Roosevelt High School. Later both moved to Boston and formed Aerosmith with Ray as the bands's original rhythm guitarist. Ray Tabano has been featured internationally in books, documentary films, tv and radio shows

This weekend Tabano, is hosting a fundraiser for his favorite charity, Disabled American Veterans Chapter #23. This event will be held over a two-day span, Friday & Saturday November 12 & 13 at Barney McNabbs, 600 Tuckahoe Rd. Yonkers NY. Admission is $ 10.

Tabano and his Third Step Band will perform originals and covers of top British hits songs of the 60's. Ray's special guests on Friday night will be Sue & The Fun Ghouls and on Saturday it will be Lenny & The Biscuits. This will be a great show for a worthy cause.

The show also features a sparkling multi-media presentation of the period along with beginnings of Aerosmith who were influence by the music of that time. Some surprise celebrity guest maybe dropping in over the weekend. Don't miss this rockin fun filled opportunity to be part of this wonderful and charitable event and help us help our Veterans.

The concert starts at 830 pm both nights.

Letter to the Editor:

I am writing to express my appreciation to all the voters of Westchester who gave me a vote of confidence in electing me to a second term as Westchester County Executive. I am committed to continue achieving positive results for our neighbors over the next four years and I look forward to working closely with the people and the local governments of our area every single day.

George Latimer, Westchester County Executive

The Harder They Fall, Number 1 on Netflix

By: Dennis Richmond, Jr.

The Harder They Fall is currently the number one movie on Netflix. The film is about Black cowboys, Black outlaws, and Black lawmakers during the 19th century. The soundtrack for the film features a song called "King Kong Riddim." The song has multiple rappers on it, including JAY-Z and Jadakiss. In the song, Jadakiss raps, "Black outlaws, opposite of the Proud Boys." The legendary rapper from Yonkers delivered beautifully on his verse. Jadakiss never disappoints in his music.

The film was co-produced by Shawn Carter. Shawn is better off known by his stage name, JAY-Z. The film has principal cast members that are all Black. Some stars in this film include Regina King, Idris Elba, Jonathan Majors, and LaKeith Stanfield. Many critics compare the movie to the movie Django Unchained. There are distinct differences between the two. Django Unchained did not have an entire Black principal cast and used the n-word excessively. The Harder They Fall didn't show slavery. There were no conversations about plantations. Not to mention, Black women and Black men stood up for themselves in various ways.

Yonkers City Councilwoman Shanae Williams talked to me for almost half an hour about the film. "I love the action, the horseback riding, and how they work with the police," she said. In the movie, we meet prominent figures in Black history. Figures who time attempted to erase and public schools failed to acknowledge. Bass Reeves was the first Black Deputy U.S. Marshal to the west of the Mississippi River. Stagecoach Mary was the first Black woman to become a star-route mail carrier in the United States. Nat Love was one of the most famous cowboys ever.

The movie showed Black people authentically. There was no subservientness. The women not only stood up to each other, but they stood up to men. Perhaps one of my favorite scenes in the movie was seeing an all-white town. You'll have to see the film to understand what that means. There's a reason that the movie hit number one on Netflix. That reason is that Black audiences will watch something if it shows authenticity.

"It was good," said Tulleesha Burbage, 27, in Upper Darby, Pennsylvania. She watched the film with a special friend a few days ago. The ancestors must be rejoicing to know that their names are being researched and celebrated. With Black people finally having their stories told the right way, thousands of people are tuning in to see what all the fuss is about, and you should too. "I would recommend it," said Kayvon Philip-Reid, 26, in Mount Vernon, New York. Even though some of the stories in the movie might be fictional, all the characters were real. I say the film deserves a ten out of ten.

Flat Tire? Call Congressman Bowman 1-718-530-7710

By Eric W. Schoen

The infrastructure in this country is crumbling. Look at our streets. Look at the tunnels we pass under or over. Look at what happened with Hurricane IDA in September. 18 people died. Lately you cannot drive down a street where construction is not taking place.

Roads, bridges, people getting asthma because they have to breathe in the air from the Cross Bronx Expressway traffic. Flat tires. You pull out of the gas station and the alignment just done on your car hits the road and is out of wack. Money down no pun intended the drain.

Does our Congressman who represents Yonkers and a good part of Westchester, Jamaal Bowman, my neighbor, a resident of Park Hill in Yonkers care? Nope. He voted against the Infrastructure Bill to fix not only our regions infrastructure but crumbling infrastructure throughout the country.

He and the members of this so called 'Squad' voted against the American people who would not only have had their roads repaired but would have the opportunity for good paying construction jobs. We are talking about white, black and brown people. He put out a video saying the infrastructure bill would only benefit White People.

You see, he is ignorant of the fact that so many rules have been put in place at all levels of government to insure that Minority and Woman owned businesses receive a fair share of jobs on government contracts. He doesn't recognize the hard work of good Democrats like M. Paul Redd, may he Rest In Peace who was President and Chief Operating Officer of the Westchester/Putnam Affirmative Action Program. During his tenure, the agency successfully placed more than 4000 women and minorities in training programs leading to good paying careers as union tradespeople.

In one week our beloved M. Paul did more for women and minorities to get them good paying construction jobs than Jamaal Bowman will do in his lifetime. Every resident of New York's 16th Congressional District should be furious at Bowman's no vote. Every member of the construction and trades Unions in Westchester County should be furious. Every union member in Westchester County should be furious. Every Black, brown, white person and woman who lives in the 16th Congressional District should be furious.

That's why I say for all you drivers out there who get a flat tire, call Congressman Bowman's offices. In the Bronx the number is 1-718-530-7710. In Mount Vernon the number is 914-371-9220. In Washington the number is 202-225-2464. Ask him to send a tow truck to fix your tire or pay for a new one if it can't be fixed. Ask him to pay for new alignment on your car.

You realize when it comes to doling out the money allocated in the bill, the President and Governors are going to fund projects in districts whose representatives voted for the bill. Not so much so for those who voted against it. So Jamaal Bowman screwed those of us who live in his district big time!

Let's look at some of the many infrastructure projects that Jamaal Bowman voted against. The total bill that Congress passed is $1.2 Trillion. New

Bronx Woman Charged with Assault After Attacking Metro-North Train Conductor

Westchester County District Attorney Miriam E. Rocah announced that Bronx resident Alexis Adams was charged with assault after she attacked and caused injury to a Metro-North Railroad conductor.

Adams, 21, was charged on October 22, 2021, with two counts of Assault in the Second Degree, a felony, and a warrant was issued for her arrest. The Metropolitan Transportation Authority Police Department arrested Adams and she was arraigned in Mount Vernon City Court on October 28, 2021.

According to the felony complaint, on October 11, 2021, at approximately 6:02 p.m., Adams hit the conductor in the face with a pumpkin and then punched the conductor in the face and head multiple times. The victim was transported to a local hospital where she received medical treatment, including numerous stitches, for her injuries. The incident occurred after Adams failed to produce a ticket and the conductor advised her to leave the train at the next stop.

The Metropolitan Transportation Authority Police Department investigated the case. "Violent attacks on essential workers doing their jobs will not be tolerated," DA Rocah said. "Metro-North Railroad conductors, like all public facing employees, have a right to feel safe in their workplace."

"Throughout the pandemic, we have called upon our conductors to do more than ever before. They need to know that we are absolutely committed to making their work environment as safe as possible," said Catherine Rinaldi, President of MTA Metro-North Railroad. "I applaud MTAPD for their investigation which led to the arrest and to the District Attorney's office for sending a very clear message that assaults like this will not be tolerated and will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law."

SARAH LAWRENCE COLLEGE'S CENTER FOR THE URBAN RIVER AT BECZAK DISCOVERS RARE FISH IN HUDSON RIVER

You can call the lyre goby (Evorthodus lyricus) a fish out of water... at least the waters of New York State.

On October 25, Jason Muller, Outreach Coordinator at Sarah Lawrence College's Center for the Urban River at Beczak (CURB), was seining in CURB's restored tidal marsh on the banks of the Hudson River with a team of student scientists from the College and Yonkers Public Schools. That's when, thanks to keen observation skills, Muller, SLC sophomore Gabriella Marchesani '24, and Yonkers Middle High School seniors Michael Castro and Sukaina Rashid noticed a fish in their 30-foot net that looked "different."

"When we first saw the fish in the net we assumed that it was a naked goby (Gobiosoma boscii), which is a fairly common catch in our tidal marsh," said Muller. "It had many of the characteristics of a naked goby based on its size and external anatomy. But upon closer examination we noticed that its colors didn't quite match up to what we are used to seeing."

Without the team's attention to minute detail, this rare discovery might have gone unnoticed. The lyre goby measured a mere 33 millimeters, and just two black spots on the fish's caudal peduncle distinguished it from the more familiar naked goby.

Using top-notch field procedures, Muller and the students saved the fish, quickly brought it into one of CURB's aerated tanks, and alerted Tom Lake, Consulting Naturalist at the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC). After consulting with colleagues, Lake's initial suspicions that the fish was a lyre goby were confirmed. The lyre goby is now officially the 236th species of fish known to inhabit the Hudson River.

Finding a lyre goby in the waters of the Hudson River is intriguing since its native range is in the western Atlantic from the Chesapeake Bay (previously thought to be its northern limit) south along the U.S. coast, throughout the Gulf of Mexico and Caribbean Sea, and along the Central and South American coast. While the DEC team is still studying research and literature on the lyre goby, it appears that the CURB team's finding is the first record of a lyre goby in the Mid-Atlantic Bight, which falls between Cape Hatteras, North Carolina, and Martha's Vineyard, Massachusetts

Westchester County Household Recycling Day at Playland November 13-from 9AM-3PM

Westchester County's Department of Environmental Facilities (DEF) will be conducting a Household Recycling Day (HRD) Event on Saturday, November 13 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Playland Park in Rye. COVID-19 precautions are in place to allow DEF to once again host these events for County residents. Residents should place items in their trunk or backseat, remain in their vehicles, and must wear masks while in the drop-off area.

In 2020, DEF hosted two HRD events and residents delivered nearly 275,000 pounds of household waste and approximately 37,000 pounds of documents for shredding. The upcoming HRD Event in Rye is the fourth event of 2021.

In addition to properly labelled household chemicals, tires, scrap metal, electronics, appliances and other special wastes found in a typical household, residents can bring documents for shredding and expired or unwanted medications for disposal to the November 13 HRD Event.

Generally, the following items are accepted for safe disposal or recycling:

- Properly labelled household chemicals, such as:
 - o Household cleaning products
 - o Most automotive fluids (antifreeze, brake fluid, gasoline, but not motor oil)
 - o Flammable liquids (kerosene, butane, lighter fluid, turpentine)
 - o Metal, jewelry, and furniture polishes and waxes; wood preservatives
 - o Fertilizers, pesticides, insecticides, herbicides
 - o Photographic and swimming pool chemicals
- Batteries – only vehicle, rechargeable, or button cell
- Fluorescent light bulbs & CFLs
- Fire extinguishers
- BBQ propane tanks (up to 20 lbs.)
- Mercury containing devices (thermometers and thermostats)
- Electronic waste (TVs, computer monitors and towers)
- Expired or unwanted medications, both OTC and prescription
- Personal documents for shredding (limit of four (4) file-size boxes per household)
- Tires

Items that will not be accepted and should not be brought to the Household Recycling Day include latex paint (it can be hardened and disposed of in the trash), non-rechargeable alkaline and carbon zinc batteries (they can be safely discarded in the trash), motor oil, smoke detectors, cell phones, explosives (flares, fireworks, ammunition), construction debris and hypodermic needles. Also, waste from businesses, schools, or other institutions will not be accepted.

Rye's Zero Waste Committee will also be on-site to accept items for various not-for-profits, including gently used furniture and soccer equipment, eye glasses and small appliances including microwaves, TVs (42" and smaller), blenders, vacuums, window AC units and others. For more information on items that can be donated visit www.zero-waste-day.org.

For more information on what to bring to this event, visit <https://environment.westchestergov.com/residents/household-recycling-days> or call (914) 813-5425.

Assemblymember Paulin's Bills to End Spam Robocalls Signed Into Law

Assemblymember Amy Paulin (D-Scarsdale) announces that two of her bills to stop the daily nuisance of spam robocalls have been signed into law by Governor Kathy Hochul. "This legislation is a significant step in ending the current and escalating scourge of robocalls," said Paulin. "At the same time, they will help protect consumers from fraudulent and costly robocall schemes. Robocalls are a quality-of-life issue and with these new laws we are tackling them head-on."

A585a/S4281a requires telecommunication companies to authenticate calls using STIR/SHAKEN technology in order to crack down on spam robocalls. The measure will prevent nuisance callers from using technology to "spoof" their identity with a fake, invalid number, while also making it easier for authorities to trace illegal calls back to their source.

A268a/S6267a requires telecommunication providers to block calls coming from numbers that are not valid North American numbering plan numbers, numbers that are valid but are not allocated to a provider, and valid numbers that are allocated to a provider but are unused. The law also requires providers to block calls when the subscriber assigned to a number has requested that calls purporting to originate from such number be blocked because such number is only used for inbound calls.

Robocalls present a significant nuisance for New Yorkers on a daily basis and are the top consumer complaint received by the Federal Communications Commission. Year over year the issue has worsened exponentially, and figures indicate that it will continue to worsen unless preventive measures are implemented to combat the problem. Requiring telecommunication providers to block these calls will afford much needed safeguards to decrease the number of unwanted robocalls New Yorkers receive.

"Robocalls are disruptive, pervasive, and serve no benefit to families and communities. Blocking robocalls can protect vulnerable consumer populations from predatory practices, in particular our seniors who have been targeted by scammers during the pandemic. I am proud to sponsor this legislation, which blocks the majority of robocalls and I am grateful to Governor Hochul for taking this step to help New Yorkers feel safe when using their phones."

In many instances robocalls are scams targeted at consumers. "The scams are all different, and there won't be a single silver bullet to fix them all, but these new laws attack the problem from multiple angles," said Paulin.

"Robocalls are a daily annoyance," continued Paulin. "No one wants to answer the phone anymore. You can't even trust calls from local numbers. By requiring providers to utilize technology that prevents spoofed numbers and proactively block calls that are clearly illegitimate, these laws are a critical step towards ending this nuisance. It's time to take back control of our phones and end this telephone harassment."

March of Dimes 34th Real Estate Awards Breakfast Raises $1 Million; Cappelli Honored

March of Dimes Greater NY Market held the 34th Annual Real Estate Awards Breakfast Thursday, November 4th, 2021 at the Opus Westchester in White Plains. The event shattered its fundraising goal, raising over $1 million to support the March of Dimes' mission to improve the health of moms and babies.

Two visionary commercial real estate industry leaders were honored. Rella Fogliano, President & CEO of MacQuesten Development, LLC, received the coveted March of Dimes Real Estate Award. "I am truly moved to have been chosen for this award. I am grateful to be a part of this industry especially in moments like these when we can help to improve the lives of babies and families," said Rella Fogliano.

Louis R. Cappelli, Founder and Managing Member of Cappelli Organization, received the Martin S. Berger Award for Lifetime Achievement. "I love building tall, beautiful buildings. I love helping to create and improve cities especially in Westchester, my home. What do I love most? Helping to save lives. Helping to improve lives. Like raising one million dollars with my friend Rella Fogliano and setting a new bar for this cause to save babies and moms," said Louis Cappelli.

The March of Dimes Real Estate Awards Breakfast was hosted by News 12 Networks' Emmy Award-winning Anchor/Reporter Tara Rosenblum and broke all previous fundraising records. $1 million is the most the event has raised in its 34-year history.

Joe Apicella, Managing Director of MacQuesten Development, presented the March of Dimes Real Estate Award to Rella Fogliano. The introduction included highlighting the transformational developments of Rella and MacQuesten in Mount Vernon, NY that have re-imagined the landscape of the city. Rella was coined "the George Baily of Westchester" at the event.

Joe Simone, President of Simone Development Companies, presented the Martin S. Berger Award for Lifetime Achievement to Louis R. Cappelli. His introduction included a tribute in pictures and music to his exceptional career, which includes extensive re-designs of downtown White Plains, New Rochelle and beyond. Louis' fingerprint has raised the bar on real estate development. His vision is "investing in tomorrow," and building brighter futures for our communities.

Rella Fogliano and Louis Cappelli presented a $1 MILLION check to the March of Dimes. Patricia Valenti, Executive Managing Director for NEWMARK and March of Dimes Real Estate Awards Breakfast Chair along with Mark Weingarten, Partner at Del Bello Donnellan Weingarten Wise and Wiederkehr (DDWWW) and March of Dimes Fund the Mission Chair, and Annette Trotta-Flynn, March of Dimes Development Director, accepted the record-breaking check.

Let's Work Harder to Find Our Missing Children from Westchester left, Londyn Harris Missing Since Oct 15, from White Plains, age 17

right, Tereza Ramirez, Pleasantville, last seen September 17, age-16

By Dan Murphy & Dennis Richmond Jr.

I want to thank my friend and new colleague at Yonkers Rising and YonkersTimes.com, Dennis Richmond Jr., for reminding me about the unreported on missing teen agers from Westchester. Dennis contrasted the excessive news coverage of the Gabby Petito, to a few black and latino teens from Westchester that he found on The National Center for Missing and Exploited Children website, missingkids.org.

We now begin an effort to highlight recent missing children in Westchester and report to our readers, in the hopes that someone will see something and say something. If anyone wants to support this effort, please email us at news@yonkerstimes.com.

Social Media Reacts to Missing Teenagers Article.
By: Dennis Richmond, Jr.

My article from October 20th, 2021, titled "77 BLACK & HISPANIC TEENS MISSING IN NEW YORK," has garnered thousands of views online. Thousands of people liked it on Instagram, over 700 people shared it on Facebook, and people even started posting it on Twitter. I've gotten messages and read comments from dozens of people. One person claimed to have a connection to one teenager mentioned in the article.

The person told me that one of the people mentioned who was missing was not missing at all. They went on to say that I had upset the family and that the family might even take legal action against me. The National Center for Missing and Exploited Children still has this person listed as missing. One of two things happened. The organization didn't take the picture down and the name down, or she is still missing.

If she is not missing, then I would like to apologize to her and her family. I apologize for causing them any ill will. My goal was to bring attention to the dozens of Black and Latinx teenagers missing in New York. Her name and picture are on the website. If she's alright, I suggest reaching out to the center and letting them know.

As of now, no one from the family has reached out to me directly. I made a post that went viral. I am using the same platforms that I did before and publicly apologize if I offended this family.

ents raised him and ran a small business in the city. He now lives in Eastchester. "I never thought I would run for office, but I'm running because I had to. I come with a background in finance, and I wanted to serve on the county board to look at the budget.

The voters appreciated that I'm not a politician, and it went a long way. I grew up in New Rochelle and my parents and grandparents worked in New Rochelle for 50 years.

One issue that appeared on Giacobbe's campaign Facebook page was the Westchester County Airport and the flights that were coming in the middle of the night with migrants crossing the border from Mexico. "The airport was an issue that I didn't want to campaign on, but the democrats kept it hidden for months until somebody told us about it."

"I spent two weeks at the airport at 230 in the morning to find out what was going on. I did my own investigation and followed the buses leaving the airport that went to Somers and Port Chester and White Plains. I wanted to talk about other Westchester issues, but it fell in my lap, and it didn't go away."

"I was also surprised that not one county legislator ever spoke about it, including Legislator Cunzio (who ran on the conservative line)," said Giacobbe, who also challenged the claim by County Executive George Latimer that he was unaware of the flights until it came to light in the media.

"The county police were there for months watching the flights come in, so there is no way that George (Latimer) did know about it. He could have made it go away by saying that there is nothing that I can do about it because it's a federal issue and the federal government are sending in these flights to Westchester. He could have easily put it to bed. Thousands of Westchester residents were concerned about it," said Giacobbe.

Giacobbe also called for sales tax relief. "With so many small businesses struggling maybe it's time to look at sales tax savings to compete with the internet. There is a county north of Westchester proposing to eliminate sales tax on clothing and footwear purchases up to $110. I am looking forward to bringing new ideas like this to the table so we can stimulate local businesses and save residents money at the same time."

Giacobbe says after the absentee ballots are counted, win or lose, he plans on staying involved and running for office again. "Voters liked the truth, and I'm someone who has a young family and wants to live here for 30 years. The response to my message was good, so that in the future I plan on being on the ballot somewhere, in two years in this race or another race. I don't plan on going away."

Giacobbe also said that the republican party in Westchester does have a future. "I think that the low turnout from this election showed that the democrats weren't excited enough to come out and take advantage of their enrollment edge. I think if we focus on republicans and independents in Westchester, the republican party can win."

"Another big problem for the democratic party is that they are going too far left. Just like some in the republican party have gone too far right. Most people are somewhere in the middle and they don't want far left or far right politics in their lives. They don't want to defund the police. Today's democratic party isn't the party that my parents and grandparents were a part of, and the vote totals show that.

Westchester County has 319,753 registered democrats. Latimer received 97,753 votes, which came from democrats but also independents, working families party members and republicans. "With a higher republican turnout, any seat is winnable," said Giacobbe, who campaigned with Eastchester Supervisor Tony Colavita during this election, adding that it helped both. "I worked closely with Tony for the last 8 months, and I hope that I helped him bring out a younger generation of voters, just like he helped me. Win or lose, this was a good election and a learning experience for me."

York State is scheduled to receive $170 Billion. $11.5 Billion for our crumbling roads and highways. $1.9 Billion for bridge repairs. See those bridges in Westchester that are scary to go under as concrete is falling. Bowman voted against their repair.

$14.7 Billion for the Environmental Protection Agencies Drinking Water Fund. $14.7 billion for Water Quality Improvements. You can't thank Mr. Bowman for cleaner water!

Do you use JFK or LaGuardia airports? $294 million is allocated for JFK and $150 million for LaGuardia. Don't thank Mr. Bowman for making your air travel more comfortable and safe.

In the realm of Mass Transit, $9.8 Billion is allocated for clean buses, $22 Billion for Amtrak. Money for Improvements to the Gateway Tunnel and Projects under the Hudson River. $24 Billion for the Northeast Corridor modernization. $12 Billion for New York for Intercity Passenger Rail including high speed rail. Have you ever taken the Eurostar high speed rail between London, Paris, Brussels or Amsterdam. If it was up to Mr. Bowman we would have nothing like that intercity in New York and Beyond.

As we go to press New York Leaders including Senator Chuck Schumer are calling on Infrastructure funds to be used for capping portions of the Cross Bronx Expressway. Who doesn't hate that roadway! The highly-congested 6.5-mile freeway displaced Black and Latino residents and destroyed developing businesses since its conception, as well as left communities with serious health impacts from toxic fumes. Schumer and Democratic Rep. Ritchie Torres who voted YES on the infrastructure bill are among those who want to transform the sunken portion of the highway into parks and green space.

"The Cross Bronx Expressway, built by Robert Moses, is both literally and metaphorically a structure of racism, with diesel truck traffic polluting the air black and brown kids breathe everyday," Torres said. You see all that black 'schmutz' (Yiddish word for dirt, filth or grime) when you travel along the Cross Bronx Expressway on the sides of the roadway. People including motorists breathe that in.

Moses designed the highway in the 20s and bulldozed Black, Jewish and Puerto Rico homes, building the highway right in the middle and creating the South Bronx -- which has the highest asthma rate anywhere in the country. I guess the amelioration of asthma is not high on Congressman Bowman's agenda.

The Chairperson of the Westchester Democratic Party in an article in the Journal News said she has never received as much communication as she has on Congressman Bowman's vote. She is fairly new so that has to tell you something!

This was a bad vote compounded by statements the Congressman has made via email, press release and in my Facebook feed. He had an almost blank slate of community involvement when he was elected (save for a school he ran whose problems were made public) and this vote only goes to show how out of touch the Congressman is with his constituency.

So next time you get a flat, call the numbers in this article and ask Congressman Bowman and his staff what you should do!

Briefs: Kudos to reader Joe Cianciulli, Yonkers long time Zoning Board Chairman for moving Zoning Board meetings to Saunders High School. My guess is this was done to allow for plenty of social distancing and to allow the public to participate. We are all kinda over Zoom meetings. There are plenty of large size venues in Yonkers where Public Meetings can be safely held and members of the public can attend in person.

Those involved with the production of the Travis Scott Astroworld Concert which ended in such tragedy including Scott who encouraged the outrageous behavior that occurred should be thrown in jail for a good long time. And all concert venues should re-evaluate how they operate in light of the long standing problems that have occurred at concerts by this so called 'artist.'

Wallauer Raises $6,000 to Support The Pink Fund for 2021

Wallauer Paint & Design Centers collected donations at every cash register in their 15 store locations throughout the month of October to donate to The Pink Fund. This year, the stores collected a total of $3,000 and that amount will be matched by Wallauer bringing the grand total of the donation to $6,000.

The Pink Fund, a non-profit breast cancer organization, provides 90-day non-medical cost-of-living expenses to breast cancer patients who are in active treatment. This year was the fourth year in a row that Wallauer supported the organization. The prior cumulative total was $15,000 which means the total donated to date is $21,000.

According to the American Cancer Society, this year in the United States alone, there will be an estimated 281,550 new cases of invasive breast cancer diagnosed in women; 2,650 cases diagnosed in men; and an additional 49,290 cases of ductal carcinoma in situ (DCIS) diagnosed in women.

While in active treatment, many patients are unable to work and experience a loss of income that can result in catastrophic financial losses and the need to rebuild financial health. The Pink Fund's 90-day grant program helps patients meet their critical expenses for housing, transportation, utilities, and insurance so they can focus on healing, raising their families and returning to the workplace." Hudson Valley Restaurant Week is Back

It's time for local diners to make their reservations for the Fall 2021 Hudson Valley Restaurant Week. From new eateries to familiar favorites, more than 60 Westchester restaurants are participating in this annual celebration of the local culinary scene.

County Executive George Latimer said: "Hudson Valley Restaurant Week is one of the recurring events that makes Westchester County a great place to live – and visit. Residents and visitors look forward to this opportunity to sample the best cuisine our region has to offer. I urge you to support our local restaurateurs and their staffs by trying a new restaurant or revisiting an old favorite."

Director of Westchester County's Office of Tourism and Film Office Natasha Caputo said: "There is nothing like fall in the Hudson Valley. I encourage both visitors and residents to get out and enjoy a delicious meal and explore Westchester's many unique attractions, farms, parks and more."

Group Publisher, Today Media Hudson Valley Mike Martinelli said: "We are excited to celebrate restaurant week this fall and help our local restaurants that are still suffering as a result of the COVID-19 health crisis. Restaurant Week was designed to support and promote the restaurant industry, which needs us now more than ever. So please join me and let's get out and dine."

From November 1-14 chefs throughout the Hudson Valley will be celebrating restaurant dining with delicious, creative dishes featuring locally sourced ingredients. With safety protocols in place and special prix-fixe menus for dining indoors or taking out, these restaurants are ready to serve you their very best. Throughout the two-week event, restaurants will be offering 3 course, prix-fixe lunches at $25.95 and dinners at $35.95.

New restaurants participating in 2021 include La Botte in White Plains. Among the other standouts are Tramonto and Harvest on Hudson.

ance, or behavior. The priority should not be thinking about what may be causing it but to seek medical attention. Don't wait. These signs should be a trigger for an emergency and to call 911. Trained in stroke care, E.M.S. staff will notify the Emergency Room before they arrive with the patient. The idea is to reduce time delay when symptoms are found," said Sugrue.

When it comes to a stroke, how fast you are treated is critical. As one of the only hospitals in the area that is a Gold Plus Certified and Joint Commission Accredited Stroke Center, St. John's Riverside Hospital has made substantial investments to be ready for you or your family members, with an award-winning stroke team. Access to multi-board-certified doctors, brain scans, and Tissue Plasminogen Activator are critical and available.

"Stroke care has evolved over the past few years, and different hospitals have different capabilities. Calling an ambulance ensures that you are brought to the hospital that can best treat a stroke," said Dr. Milizia, who explained that there are two types of stroke.

Both types of strokes are medical emergencies, and you should call 911 immediately. "The most common is a blockage in an artery that brings blood flow to a part of the brain, which results in that part of the brain not functioning correctly. When that part of the brain that controls your functions goes away, you have facial muscle drooping, or your arm or leg might weaken. These types of strokes don't hurt, but you can lose function and see a change in your behavior."

"The other type of stroke is a bleeding stroke, where a piece of an artery breaks and blood goes into the brain. That does cause pain and headaches and can also affect your consciousness and behavior," said Dr. Milizia.

Is there anything you can do to prevent a stroke?

"High blood pressure, diabetes, smoking, high cholesterol, and lack of exercise are all risk factors for stroke. Most of these habits are modifiable, and you can work to change them. You can't change things like your age, your family history, or genetics, but you can take your medicine as prescribed and make smart life choices to improve the health of your brain. Exercise is important, stop smoking, follow up with your medical provider and keep track of your blood sugar and blood pressure numbers," said Sugrue.

How did COVID, and the pandemic of 2020, affect stroke patients?

Dr. Milizia said, "During the height of COVID in 2020, there were a lot of patients who were afraid to come to the hospital, and they ignored their signs of a stroke. Patients should not delay seeking medical help for fear of COVID."

Nurse Sugrue said, "There are safety protocols and infection prevention procedures that we utilize here at St. John's Riverside Hospital. Patients can be confident about coming to the emergency room with a stroke or signs of a stroke. A stroke can leave devastating disabilities behind. That is the main reason to seek emergency medical attention quickly."

"St. John's Riverside Hospital is certified by the Joint Commission and New York State as an Advanced Primary Stroke Center. We collaborate with multiple departments in the hospital utilizing best practices in stroke care for our community," said Dr. Milizia, who is the Director of the Emergency Department at St. John's and is also Stroke Program Director.

"The American Heart Association has recognized St. John's with the highest award for stroke care. We have received Gold Plus Certification for stroke care and additional recognition for our care of stroke patients with diabetes."

Linda Sugrue began as an Emergency Room Nurse and is now Stroke Program Coordinator at St. John's Riverside Hospital. "We are all passionate about stroke care and reducing the disabilities caused by stroke. Educating the public can be challenging -COVID impacted our in-person efforts to reach out to the community, so we have turned to social media to help get the message out."

"We take our responsibility as a stroke center very seriously and are committed to serving the City of Yonkers and our surrounding communities. The F.A.S.T. acronym is an easy way to remember what to watch for. Sometimes simpler is better," said Sugrue.

time around we can't leave the most vulnerable behind. We could have waited another day or week, to vote on both bills together, but my moderate democratic colleagues reneged on the deal."

Bowman added, "There are lobbying efforts fighting to stop the Human Infrastructure bill from passing. The pharmaceutical lobbyist doesn't want it because we are trying to lower prescription costs and to expand Obamacare to cover 5 million more Americans. The fossil fuel lobbyists don't want it because we want to hold the fossil fuel industry accountable.

"We know that these same lobbyists wanted the hard infrastructure, but we wanted to tie both together to make sure that this time around we don't leave women, seniors, children, immigrants and climate behind."

Bowman underscored an important point for those concerned about our national debt and deficit spending. "The Human bill is paid for, while the Hard infrastructure bill borrows more to pay for it. Why isn't anyone talking about that, and why was the Human bill delayed when it was paid for? That bill has the wealthy and corporations in this country pay their fair share so that we don't leave the most vulnerable people behind." And both the Hard and Human Infrastructure bills are total costs spread out over 10 years.

Bowman says that now, "the pressure is on the moderate democratic house members" to pass the Human Infrastructure bill. We also need to pass Voting Rights and Common-Sense Gun Reform. I'm tired of people being killed in the district, and the poverty of people of color. I will always push for investment in vulnerable people. So, I won't compromise for the 18-year-old that has no investment in their future and the single mom who has no lobbyist."

If Bowman and Democratic Progressive House members are successful, and pass the Human Infrastructure bill, it moves onto the Senate, where passage is still uncertain. The senate has a 50-50 tie between Democrats and Republicans, with Vice-President Kamala Harris the tie breaking vote.

But if one senate democrat votes no, nothing passes. And right now, that one democrat is Senator Joe Manchin from West Virginia. "Our leadership in the house has been negotiating with Manchin every step of the way, and then last week he comes out and says he can't support the human infrastructure bill. So, it's confusing," said Bowman, who can only control what the House passes, and then he plans to work on the Senate in the arena of public opinion.

"Progressive democrats see the world differently from our moderate colleagues. When you invest in people you will reap the results on the back end. With universal childcare and pre-k, with workforce development with lower prescription costs, when you invest in these things, it empowers people to do great things, and become inspired and start their own business. That is what we need to do now more than ever."

Bowman said "there is widespread support from democrats in my district to pass both bills. I also represent the Bronx and Yonkers, where the passage of the Human Infrastructure will be a game changer.

"The Human Infrastructure bill will stop our system from maintaining inequality, and right the wrongs of history in an equitable way. In the end it will be a stronger economy for everyone. We are constantly asking poor people to compromise, and in the end, its people like Trump who rise and who win. And he may win again, because of his wealth and a system that benefits him."

Bowman blamed the media for the narrative that came out that he and AOC and the progressive democratic members of "The Squad" are to blame for everything. "The country jumped out of a window to blame progressives for the recent election and for me and the squad voting no on the bill, without the media talking to us. But that's what sells papers and gets clicks."

"The Democratic party is the big tent party. I have broad support in my district, across wealth, white people, black people, Jews and Christians. And I reach out to them and listen because I represent everyone."

The victims were a mother and daughter, Isabella Triano, 70, and Trisha Miller, 38, both from Yonkers.

One week prior to allegedly stabbing both victims, on Oct. 26, Ramos was arrested in Wappingers Falls, for Felony Arson. He was released and 8 days later he was arrested by the YPD for murder. "We have made a case about the difficulties of bail reform. The suspect was arrested for a serious charge a C Felony and released, and a week later two women were murdered. We are working with our state legislators to try and make modifications to bail reform," said Mueller.

Mueller praised the work of the Detectives of the YPD who worked the case, and the cooperation from the Westchester DA's office, the US Attorney's office in the SDNY and the FBI. "This is such an amazing job by our Yonkers detectives, and our partners in the DA's office, the FBI, and the SDNY to all do this and come together in 24 hours.

Ramos' ex-girlfriend had contacted police the day after Ramos had borrowed a car from a friend and failed to return it. Ramos spoke to the ex-girlfriend and confessed to the murders, explaining that he confronted Tirano and Miller about money they owed him and after, stabbed them both to death.

Why Ramos set fire to a 1999 Toyota Camry on the Taconic State Parkway at 4:10 AM is a mystery. New York State Police responded to a call of a vehicle on fire in a wooded area just off the Taconic in the Town of LaGrange. Ramos was located a few miles away from the fire and charged with third-degree arson. He was immediately released and was scheduled to appear in court on Dec. 21.

The response to Ramos' release, and the problems with bail reform, have been loud. "Two people are dead now because of these laws, and they need to be severely, severely changed," says Keith Olson, president of the Yonkers Police Benevolent Association. "Luis Ramos was arrested for felony Arson less than a week before he allegedly stabbed a mother and her daughter to death in Yonkers. As a result of the new bail reform laws, he was released on his own recognizance when he committed a brutal double homicide. Luis Ramos may have killed these women but bail reform allowed him to do it."

Yonkers Mayor Mike Spano Tweeted, "No bail for arson – you've got to be kidding me! "

One family member of the two dead women posted, "My cousins are both murdered now. Unfortunately, because he was let go for the first crime. There dead now. This law killed my two cousins... Letting him go. To do something worse... So that's real safe for everyone.. No..."

Triano was also an employee of the Yonkers Public Schools system and worked at Saunders High School.

Mayor Mike Spano stated, "In just over 24 hours, our men and women in the Yonkers Police Department identified and apprehended the individual responsible for committing a heinous act of violence. The swift action taken by the Yonkers Police sends a powerful message that those who seek to commit a crime in our city will be caught and will be held accountable to the fullest extent of the law. My thoughts continue to be with the family and loved ones of those involved in this isolated incident."

Commissioner John J. Mueller stated, "Phenomenal work by everyone involved to get Ramos into custody in short order. I want to thank our police officers, detectives, and supervisors; and our law enforcement partners in the Westchester County DA's Office, FBI Westchester Safe Streets Task Force and Phoenix Fugitive Task Force."
