Roosevelt Val & Sal Headed to Notre Dame and St. John's

Roosevelt HS Valedictorian Sydney O'Malley, and Salutatorian Robert Koon

By Dan Murphy

Congratulations to Roosevelt High School's 2022 Valedictorian Sydney O'Malley, and Salutatorian Robert Koon.

Sydney O'Malley will graduate with a weighted GPA of 102.94. Her favorite subject is business- media communications, and teacher Mark Roennau. "I wasn't really aware of the business world before taking this class, but it really got me involved and interested. I found out how important running a business is for everyday life, and the class prepared me for interviews, and to learn about the stock market and how to create and run a business. It helped me prepare for the real world." O'Malley completed 12 AP and College Link courses, and has played on the Roosevelt Soccer team since her freshman year, serving as Captain of the team for her junior and senior years. "I met a lot of friends on the soccer team. We had to end our seasons early for COVID over the past two years.

Sydney said that her experience with YPIE, "was amazing. They helped prepare me for college and helped me feel comfortable and showed me all of my

She also volunteered for State Senate Majority Leader Andrea Stewart-Cousins Youth Advisory Council. "It was a great experience and I admire Senator Stewart-Cousins, so it was great to get to meet her."

Among O'Malley's many awards and honors was an Excellence in Media Research Award. "At first I was scared to submit my research, on the trauma of brain injuries in sports, but after it was accepted I felt appreciated and was told to keep Syndey likes photograph, writing, baking and community service. One of her volunteer projects was to work as an internship-volunteer at Untermyer Gardens. "I knew nothing about manual labor and had to get up early and do some hard work. Untermyer Gardens is a hidden gem in Yonkers, and more people need to know about it and experience it."

"I am environmentally conscious and when I'm older I hope to work for a company that puts the environment first and understands that we need to keep the world a better place for future generations.

O'Malley was accepted into a dozen colleges and decided on attending the University of Notre Dame, where she will major in business. "They gave me a

Majority Leader Diaz Demands Accountability for the Taxpayers

City Council Majority Leader Tasha Diaz, left, has implemented changes to the City Council office that include making sure full-time employees are woking full time, and requiring councilmembers and staff to swipe an ID card when they come and

By Dan Murphy

City Council Majority Leader Tasha Diaz took over her new leadership post at the beginning of 2022, and after five months, she has been able to take an accounting of the office staff and council employees, and make changes to the way in which anyone earning a paycheck on the 5th floor of City Hall is held accountable.

"I think there should be some kind of accountability if you are a full-time employee. If you are not in the office, we should know where you are and what you are doing. I think all of us as councilmembers should know where are staffs are and what they are doing when they are earning their salary-for the sake of the taxpayers," said Diaz, who represents the 3rd council district.

Diaz has required council employees to swipe their ID cards whenever coming and going to have an idea of how they are spending their time. Peforming council work outside the office is allowed and completely OK, but Diaz wants to make sure that employees know that someone is making sure that everyone is earning their taxpayer funded salaries.

"I took on this role to try and provide more leadership in the overall way that our council offices operate. It's about showing leadership and being in the office and not just being a leader in name only. People that work in my office already have that accountability but why not have it across the board? I may have ruffled some feathers but sometimes that's what leadership requires and sometimes change is good."

Included in a new policy of requiring employees to swipe their ID cards when they come and go, Diaz also wants all council doors closed and locked to make it a safer environment for staff and elected officials. "I'm here five days a week and this isn't a part-time job for me. If you are on a full-time salary with benefits, you should be working for it. Some of the aides don't like it but they are not elected councilmembers. They don't like being held accountable, but tt's all about creating a productive office setting."

Yes, Times are Tough, But Don't Take it Out on Your Animals!

On May 24, SPCA Westchester announced that their Humane Law Enforcement Unit, under the direction of Ernest Lungaro, along with Yonkers Police Officer Thomas Jackson in a joint investigation arrested and charged Carletta Jenkins, 43 with animal cruelty. Jenkins is being charged with not providing adequate food, water and veterinary care for an extended period to her young pit bull.

On April 19, 2022, the Yonkers Fire responded to a kitchen fire at 13 Riverview Pl, Yonkers. A young, emaciated dog named Mad Dog was discovered in the apartment. The young pit bull was in an advanced state of emaciation, dehydration, and extreme neglect. He was removed and transported to the Yonkers Animal Shelter for medical attention.

After a thorough examination, it was found that Mad Dog's state of emaciation was consistent with starvation. His ribs, hip and pelvic bones were visibly prominent. Mad Dog was denied necessary food and water resulting in the loss of his body weight.

"We will never understand how someone could treat a helpless animal like this and deprive them of such basic necessities," says Shannon Laukhuf, SPCA Westchester's Executive Director. "We are just so grateful Mad Dog was rescued before it was too late."

If you suspect animal cruelty or neglect, call SPCA Westchester's Confidential Animal Cruelty Hotline at 914-941-7797.

SPCA Westchester's Humane Law Enforcement Unit does not receive any government funding and is run solely on donations from the public. To support the SPCA's HLE Unit, please visit speawestchester.org.

Last week we reported on the arrest of a Mt. Vernon man for animal cruelty, and hitting an 8 week old kitten with a broom stick. Last month we reported on arrest of Elmsford Veterinarian Javier Diaz, the owner of Main Street Animal Hospital, with six counts of animal cruelty and 3rd degree assault. Stop abusing animals!

Yonkers Police Arrest Gunman in Oak Street Daylight Shooting

On Sunday, May 22nd, 2022, at approximately 2:06 PM, members of the Yonkers Police Department responded to the area of Oak Street at Elm Street on a call of shots fired with no reported injuries. Upon arrival responding units learned that a gray Honda Civic may have been involved – police located that vehicle parked and unoccupied on Maple Street. Additionally, ballistic evidence – a .380 caliber discharged cartridge casing – was recovered from the area of Oak Street at Ash Street. Police cordoned off the area and initiated a criminal investigation.

Detectives from the Major Case Squad and Crime Scene Unit responded to the scene and interviewed subjects and witnesses, recovered and reviewed surveillance video, and processed forensic and ballistic evidence. Investigation yielded that a group of men were congregating in front of the bodega deli located at 150 Elm Street. A gray Honda Civic pulls up to the group and a conversation takes place between the operator of the vehicle and a member of the group. The vehicle then proceeds south on Oak Street and stops before reaching Ash Street. The operator then exits the vehicle, displays a handgun, and fires one shot in the direction of the group; he then discards the handgun thereat and flees the immediate scene. One of the members of the group sees the discarded handgun and runs down the block to take possession of the same. The fired shot struck a parked third-party vehicle; there were no reported injuries in relation to this incident. Surveillance video captured the entirety of the event.

Patrol Officers and Detectives, utilizing all available investigative and technical resources, quickly identified the operator of the vehicle; he was located and placed into custody without incident within an hour of the shooting. Investigators worked to identify and locate the member of the group who took possession of the handgun; he was arrested two days later on May 24th. Investigators believe that the shooting was the result of a dispute between the operator of the vehicle and the men in front of the store, possibly related to group violence.

Commissioner Chris Sapienza stated, "Brazen acts of violence in our communities will be met with bold, swift action by the Yonkers Police; we will never tolerate behavior that endangers our residents and our kids. Let these arrests be a warning to other bad actors: you will be arrested and you will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law."

The operator of the vehicle is identified as Thomas GIBSON, a 21-year-old resident of Sherwood Avenue this City. The group member who took possession of the handgun is identified as Miguel NEGRON, a 32-year-old resident of Ludlow Street this City.

Gibson was charged with one count of Attempted Murder 2, a Class B Violent Felony in the New York State Penal; one count of Attempted Assault 1, a Class C Violent Felony in the New York State Penal Law; one count of Criminal Possession of a Weapon 2', a Class C Violent Felony in the New York State Penal Law; and one count of Reckless Endangerment 1', a Class D Felony in the New York State Penal Law.

Negron was charged with one count of Criminal Possession of a Weapon 3', a Class D Violent Felony in the New York State Penal Law; and Tampering with Physical Evidence, a Class E Felony in the New York State Penal Law.

"The Boss" Has Passed, His Melody Will Linger On! The Passing of William O'Shaughnessy

By Eric W. Schoen

I never called him Bill. I never called him Mr. O'Shaughnessy. I always called him 'The Boss.' Tears came to my eyes when I heard of the passing of, as so many of the online obituaries referred to him as 'Radio's William O'Shaughnessy,' the owner and President of Whitney Communications.

A loss for radio. A loss for ethical journalism. A loss of a fierce protector of the 1st Amendment. A quick reminder:

'Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.'

Whitney Communications is owner of radio stations WVOX 1460 AM and

Whitney Communications is owner of radio stations WVOX 1460 AM and WVIP 93.5, two small but giant radio stations. WVOX is the only radio station 'broadcasting Westchester' since the demise of WFAS. WVOX 1460 AM, WVOX. COM, WVOX app for download free from the App Store is where I broadcast the Westchester Rising Radio Show so many of you listen every other Thursday morning from 10-11 a.m.

Let's not forget WVIP. WVIP features a Caribbean music format airing programming for the Afro-Caribbean community. Its studios are in New Rochelle, and its transmitter is located yes, in Yonkers.

I always wanted to have a radio show since I was a kid. Mom and dad always had the radio on, mom a 1010 WINS listener except when it snowed and we would find out if schools were closed on WVOX or WFAS. Knowing my interest in radio, Dan Murphy, the hardworking Editor of these newspapers asked me one day if I would share broadcasting duties with him on the The Westchester Rising Radio Show. In a Yonkers minute I said yes.

Had I heard radio growing up all my life? Yes. Did I know how to host a radio show? Not a clue. But Dan said don't worry, it's easy. You simply speak what's on your mind. just like I do every week in these newspapers. Some people agree with you, some people don't. Dan said both of these types of people will call to make their voices heard. Some callers keep it short. Others could go on for the full hour. You just have to know when the time comes to say thanks for calling, have a great day!

So I walked into the station, put the headset on, cued the microphone, took a picture in front of the microphone, learned the basics from Cracker Jack Engineer Debbi Shecter and away I went. At first I would spend the whole day before getting ready for the show. Now I jot down the topics I want to talk about the night before, look for hot topics in the morning papers, jot down some notes from my weekly columns and away I go.

No one tells me what I can and cannot say on the radio. Freedom of Speech is a hallmark of William O'Shaughnessy. Do I talk about current events. Of Course. The latest movies I have seen. Folks love my bargain segments, particularly in light of the prices of everything going up in the current economy. Does one ever know what I will be talking about? Nope. As one caller said, 'Your radio show is different from so many of the other shows on this and other stations.' I take that as a compliment.

Tune on the other radio stations. Trump. Clinton. Biden. Harris. The all news stations and the talk stations give you the same thing with different spins. I believe the listener wants something else. That's what I try to offer. And I thank 'The Boss' for giving me the opportunity to share what's in my mind with you. I do hope you enjoy it, and if you do or don't you will call me or email me at thistooisyonkers@aol.com with your thoughts.

Several times a year, I publicly thank 'The Boss' for allowing me to occupy the airwaves for my hour every other week. William O'Shaughnessy made my dream come true. I will forever be grateful!

WVOX is affiliated with Music of Your Life, which airs overnights, weekends, and in time slots not occupied by a local show. Sinatra Programming, golden oldies, smooth music, sometimes a man broadcasting on his boat tunes from a time where crooners made music for people to enjoy and relax. Yes friend, WO, 'The Boss' has passed, but his Melody and the wonderful talk and music you hear on his stations will, God willing Linger on!

Senseless Shootings

Man shot on the subway. People shot at a Grocery Store in Buffalo. Children Shot at at school in Uvalde, Texas. When is this craziness going to stop?

Who is in charge here? Washington and Albany? I don't know, do you? We have got to get guns out of the hands of bad people. We have to stop this crazy New York bail reform which is a revolving door for criminals. We need, particularly in light of the pandemic more mental health services available to those who need them. And when a red flag pops up, we have to get the gun outs of the hands of the person who has it.

Who is to blame? Democrats and Republicans in Washington can't reach consensus on anything. A tragic event occurs, everyone is in an uproar, and no changes are made. It's a vicious cycle that just goes on and on. Look at what happened at Sandy Hook. Wasn't everything supposed to change after that. Did it? Nope! Everyone placing the blame on someone else. But how many tragedies are we going to have to go through before something is done?

menting the changes said, "We work in a government office building, and with some of the things we see happening across the country, Majority Leader Diaz wanted to prevent that from happening here by requiring staff to swipe their ID cards so that nobody can just walk right in. This isn't a barn-there needs to be safety for all of us."

Diaz added, "I was asked by someone on the 5th floor, why I am locking my door. Because there are a lot of people coming in and out of City Hall every day. Movies and TV shows, with hundreds of crew members are in here. I'm here to do a job, but to also make sure that all of us get home every night."

Diaz has also changed the design of the council offices by providing privacy, and COVID barriers, so that council staff can meet with constituents in private and get more work done. "People need privacy to get their work done. You can't have everyone in one room, that's not how I can stay productive. I converted a conference room into individual spaces so that each aide has a space of their own."

Diaz said that there was an initial pushback from some to the new policy, which resutled in what she said, "was a fight for me to get my own office. But I didn't get here keeping my mouth shut. I'm a strong person and when I see a need for change, I am going to implement that.'

It is also interesting to note that the so called changes that Diaz has made, are nothing more than standard policy for any professional office environment. And, it is also ironic that Diaz is proposing the professional changes to the City Council office and staff when she was criticized by her council peers during the selection of Majority Leader as exhibiting unprofessional behavior, conduct and language. But now it is Diaz who is pushing through more professional conduct for everyone who works on the 5th floor. "I'm the person that's changing things for the better. If your councilmember is letting you work from home I want to know about it."

"We have to lead by example. We did that with the budget and I'm proud to have worked on it with the Council President, who supports what I'm doing here, as does Mayor Spano. We need to be careful with the money the taxpayers give us. Their money should not be wasted on items like specialty coffees and employees who don't want to work for their paycheck. We have to many needs in our city for those taxdollars, I would rather spend our money on paving roads and making sure that our students get the funding they needed, which they did in this budget.' "This comes from being frugal at home, and I think a lot of my constituents want us to be frugal, and careful with their tax dollars. This is who I am and I'm not here to play games. This is about doing what is good for the community and working hard. If they don't like it, they can step aside. Do they know how many people in

Gashi & Catherine Parker to Challenge Bowman for Congress in 16th District

Democratic Westchester County Legislators Catherine Parker & Vedat Gashi by Dan Murphy

Westchester County now has two members of Congress representing them, now that the new district lines have been established after much confusion. The 16th District, currently represented by Rep. Jamaal Bowman, and the 17th District currently represented by Rep. Mondaire Jones.

This story will focus on the 16th District, which now includes all of lower to mid-Westchester, including Yonkers, Mt. Vernon, White Plains, all of the sound shore communites, Greenburgh, Harrison, Eastchester, Scarsdale and Port Chester.

County Legislator Vedat Gashi announced his candidacy earlier this year, to challenge Bowman. Gashi, who lives in Yorktown and represents northern West-chester on the county board, no longer resides in the district but is still running.

After reviewing the final maps with my family and team, I'm even more excited about the campaign to win the primary election for New York's 16th Congressional District on August 23. The district lines have changed, but my reason for running has not. We're focused on bringing our country together to deliver actual progress for everyday New Yorkers. During the redistricting process I've met with a wide variety of supporters, and we've picked up a number of important endorsements which will be announced soon.

"As of date we've raised over $600,000, maintained a cash-on-hand advantage against the competition and are on track for an even stronger fund-raising total by the end of this quarter. Meanwhile, I've actively continued serving my constituents across Westchester as county legislator by lowering taxes, improving infrastructure, securing gasoline tax relief, supporting the Reproductive Health Care Facilities Access Act, approving a measure to combat gender and race-based workplace pay inequality and combating gun violence by requiring warning labels to be posted wherever firearms are sold. My campaign is about ensuring that everyone has a shot at the American dream. My family came to the United States as refugees, and I grew up in the Bronx before moving to Westchester to raise my family.

"This country gave me a chance, so I will fight to protect working families and expand the middle class. This district deserves a representative who supports President Biden's agenda, will put progress before posturing and will work hard to get things done. I look forward to continuing my dialogue with residents of the district to learn more about their concerns and share my vision of how we can strengthen our country and create a fairer nation that works for everyone," said Gashi, in a statement on May 24.

Once the new district lines were announced, County Legisaltor Catherine Parker, from Rye, announced her campaign to challenge Bowman in a democratic primary. Parker told Black Westchester that her primary issue is the environment and climate change.

"I have always been passionate about our environment; it was one of my biggest motivators for getting into government. I ran for my local City Council to help make sure my kids had a safe environment to grow up in and got hooked on the opportunity for solutions on a more regional level in the County. Now, with so many critical issues of the environment, safety, health and affordability on the debate stage in Washington, I am eager to help move our federal government in the practical progressive direction needed to address these challenges,"

Parker criticized Congressman Bowman for his vote against the infrastructure bill. "The Congressman is an educator. He understands that the purpose of government is to do the greatest amount of good for the greatest amount of people but I believe he failed at that when he voted against funding a litany of projects that will make a difference in the not-so-distant future."

Some of the confusion among Westchester democrats is that two county legisaltors are now challenging an incumbent democrat member of Congress. "Catherine is ambitious and is looking to move up," said a democratic party leader in the district." She has run for Congress before and can say that she lives in the district and as a woman, may be a more appealing candidate. But if both Parker and Gashi stays in then Bowman wins, and even if one of them gets out, Bowman will probably still

Right now republicans are looking for a candidate in the new NY-!6. Somers councilman William Faulkner was the GOP candidate but no longer lives in the district

Monday, June 6th

June 6, 1944: When they learned D-Day, the largest offensive of the war, was happening, Yonkers churches threw open their doors and tolled their bells to call people to pray for our men fighting in the brutal battle. Local war workers renewed personal pledges to get equipment needed to fight "over there," and Mayor Curtiss Frank proclaimed a day of prayer. A service was held 4:30 pm at the World War I Monument on South Broadway, and our factories stopped work to silently pray for our men fighting the vicious battle.

June 6, 1944: Four Sarno brothers held a reunion at home on D Day! Marine combat photographer Technical Sergeant Jerry Sarno, Staff Sergeant Henry Sarno, Captain Richard Sarno, and Private John Sarno were all on leave and celebrated at the family home on Cricklewood Road. All four brothers were in journalism before they went into the service; Henry and Jerry were with the Herald Statesman, brother Richard was on the staff of the Daily Mirror, John was with the International News Service. Two other sons, Corporal Arthur Sarno was with the Daily Mirror and James worked for the Herald Statesman. Six of Carmela Sarno's seven sons were in photography.

Tuesday, June 7th

June 7, 1916: After hearing rumors out-of-town gamblers had infiltrated Yonkers, Public Safety Commissioner James Fleming instructed Yonkers police to run them out of town.

June 7, 1920: Yonkers officials learned Yonkers owned a large park at Vineyard and Glenwood Avenues. Apparently the property had been purchased from George and Maude Rigby in 1907 in the time of Mayor John Coyne, but no records of the sale could be found in city records.

Wednesday, June 8th

June 11, 1946: Congregation Ohab Zedek (Prospect Street) sounded the shofar, only blown for high holy days or exceptional intercessions, for the community prayer meeting for the safety and success of our invasion troops. Led by Rabbi Alexander Rosenberg, Cantor Samuel Gartner officiated. Moses Isaacs of Yonkers, Dean of Yeshiva College, read President Roosevelt's Invasion Day Prayer; other prayers were offered for the United Nations, our government, our war dead and Yonkers' fighting men.

June 8, 2001: Yonkers native Lieutenant General William Lennox, Jr., assumed duties as the 56th Superintendent of the United States Military Academy, West Point.

Thursday June 9th

June 9, 1920: The Warburton Avenue Book and Art Company store was sold to Biber Brothers. Founded by Adolph Biber, Biber Brothers' other partners were Joseph and Herman Biber.

June 9, 1945: According to Chairman of the Yonkers War Price and Rationing Board Robert Goodwille, more than 1400 businesses were violating OPA regulations; these included restaurants, clothing stores, grocery stores, laundries and garages in all areas of Yonkers.

Friday, June 10th

June 10, 1935: The Knights Templar of the Grand Commandery of New York marched through our city in one of the most colorful parades Yonkers has ever seen, cheered and applauded by more than 50,000 spectators!

June 10, 1954: Piloted by Air Force Lieutenant Donald O'Connell, a "jet powered military plane" exploded over Dunwoodie! O'Connell was flying from Dover Air Force Base in Delaware to Bradley Air Force Base in Connecticut, when he heard an explosion; a piece of his tail 24 inches wide crashed into a large tree and fell on the ground in Philip Ballard's Alido Street back yard, still hot from the explosion. O'Connell navigated his plane toward Long Island Sound to prevent crashing in Yonkers, the most densely populated area of Westchester. He bailed out of the flaming plane, parachuting into the water near Larchmont Yacht Club. The plane crashed into a retaining seawall near the club, touching off a second explosion, scattering parts on the shore. O'Connell, picked up by a Yacht Club launch. was taken to a Larchmont doctor's office; he suffered second degree burns and cuts to his face. Fortunately, no one was hurt by the falling parts.

As we go to press, bipartisan working groups are being set up to reach some consensus in Washington. Isn't this the same thing that happens every time we have a tragedy. Our leaders in Washington know what to do. If they don't, they should resign and we have to put someone in charge who does. And tell our friends around the country to do the same thing.

Sadly, eventually this madness is going to hit home. Buffalo is earily close to us. The subway shooting of a man out for Sunday Brunch and other shootings in our area. Maybe it has already hit home.

Major mistakes were made in Texas. Those who made the mistakes must be punished and if the mistakes were intentional, prosecuted. There is no room for mistakes or parents being arrested trying to get their children out of a school building under siege.

We talk about the one door in policy in schools. Very few school buildings in this country have every door alarmed so that the central office and security office know when a door is open. Alarming every door in a school building. Not going to happen.

I don't know. Maybe it's me or are we just becoming use to these mass killing in our schools and grocery stores. Every time it happens we vow it will never happen again. And it does. And the situations keep getting worse and worse.

It's been an emotional week. Sorry for being so emotional. I hope next week we will find a course of action to make things better. And somebody will be in charge in Washington and New York State. And tragic episodes in school buildings, grocery stores and on mass transit will stop.

Dream. Sadly, that's all we can do!

2022 Pride Month Series: Thanking Our LGBTQ+ Elders

Clockwise: Cienna Rosalina, Guy Williams, Ali Youssef Mounkary, and TS

By Dennis Richmond Jr.

Pride Month is celebrated each June in the United States in celebration of the 1969 Stonewall Uprising. As we kick off Pride Month 2022, we look back to move forward. A lot of millennials and I would like to say thank you to all the elder members of the LGBTQ+ community. Most importantly, thank you to those who are no longer with us. The generations before us "gave people like me courage and tenacity," said Guy Williams, 24, of Yonkers.

Guy Williams, 24, thanks our LGBTQ+ elders for their courage and tenacity.

Guy Williams, 24, thanks our LGBTQ+ elders for their courage and tenacity. You would have had to be brave to put on makeup as a man in the 1950s or 1960s and not be in Hollywood. Previous LGBTQ+ generations were fearless because they knew who they were and where they were going in a society that told them otherwise. The 1980s saw homophobia and misinformation. Many of our elders passed due to the HIV/AIDS Epidemic. Williams wants our deceased LGBTQ+ elders to know that "HIV is not a death sentence."

Cienna Rosalina, 21, of Yonkers, thanks our LGBTQ+ elders for their allyship. As a young trans woman, Cienna says, "thank you to the gay men who have fought for us, stood for us, and respected us." During the 1960s, 1970s, and 1980s, not all gay men have been vocal in the fight for trans liberation. Some gay men still aren't. We all must stick together in our community. Black trans women face barriers and discrimination in multiple facets of life. Folx in the community with privilege need to stand up and fight for what's right.

Ali Youssef Mounkary, 21, of Boston, Massachusetts, thanks our LGBTQ+ elders for their framework. "Thank you for setting the framework for us now." Mounkary describes the folx in our community who came before us as not ancestors but trancestors. TS Candii, 28, thanked our trancestors for their existence. "Thank you for existing, thank you for being true to thyself, thank you for paving the way," said the Brooklyn, New York, resident.

Michael Stephens, 60, is a fourth-generation Yonkers resident. Stephens summed up the LGBTQ+ community in just four words. "It's been a struggle." A Black LGBTQ+ scholar and gem, Mr. Stephens is a burst of positive energy. "They call me OG now... they call me Pa." Mr. Stephens offered advice that I cherish. "Education will carry you through." He also made sure to talk to me about being alert when traveling to other places. "These kids will steal the teeth out your mouth and then help you look for it." I'm glad to have been able to speak with him and soak up some knowledge.

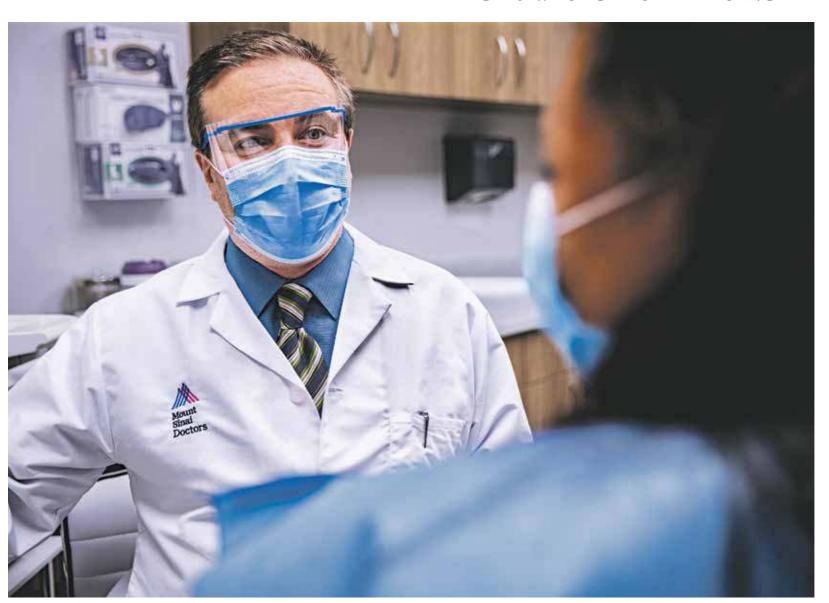

I want to thank all my LGBTQ+ elders for their authenticity. Folx in my family and families across the world had to be authentic to survive. It's one thing to live in the closet. To be out and live your truth is the basis of being authentic. Authenticity starts with you, and they all knew that. We all thank you!
